THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FOR BOYS.

The nineteenth annual report of the managers of the Wisconsin Industrial School for Boys, has been published in a pamphlet containing thirty-nine pages. The number of inmates in the school at the beginning of the fiscal year, was 364, and the number received during the present year, was 151. There have been committed to the school, since its organization in 1890, 1,576 pupils. The expenditures for the year were $48,721.45, of which $10,675.55 was for subsistence, and $14,835.16 for salaries. The managers report that there is not sufficient sleeping room for the boys in the present dormitories, as fifty are compelled to lodge where there is room for thirty-six only. For this reason the Superintendent is compelled to send away from the schools boys who have no suitable homes, who soon relapse in their old behavior much to the injury of the school and of themselves. The managers therefore recommend the building of two family houses, sufficient for fifty boys each, which will cost about $23,000. There is already a building fund of $4,000 which could be used, leaving the amount to be appropriated by the Legislature, only $19,000. In the educational department of the school, there are more than 400 boys in regular daily attendance, who give careful attention to their studies. The mental and moral training they receive in this department, combined with their education and discipline in the workshop, should qualify them to pursue some useful and profitable calling when they leave the school. The managers estimate that $15,000 will be needed to maintain the school during the current fiscal year, from which deduct $11,000 due from counties, leaving $4,000 to be appropriated by the Legislature.

The report of Superintendent S. J. M. Patnam, which is attached to that of the managers, is full of interesting facts. Under his management the school has been ably conducted. The whole attendance for the year was 327, and yet the physicians' bill for the entire year amounted to only $121.75, and during the heated term last summer, there was not a case of sickness among the number. One thing is especially to be commended in the management of the school, and that is giving the boys wholesome amusements, and also securing prominent lecturers to speak to them. During the past summer, Dr. Storrs, of New York, Rev. Father Spillard, of Texas, Dr. Sumner, of Alabama, and Dr. Irwin, of St. Louis, are among the number who have addressed the boys on subjects which were interesting and profitable. The statistics regarding the industrial department of the school show that a good deal of work has been done by the boys. The number of pairs of stockings knit during the year is 27,804. The products of the farm at the current prices, are valued at $6,876.06.

John C. Gault, Assistant General Manager of the Chicago and Milwaukee railway, and Marvin Hight, Manager of the Chicago and Northwestern railway, have written to Railway Commissioner Turner, of Madison, that their respective roads are in no wise interested in the pooling arrangement which has been effected by the Eastern lines running from Chicago. Both Gault and Hight speak in the strongest terms in opposition to the pooling business. By the way, the annual report of Railway Commissioner Turner will soon be given to the public. It will be an interesting volume as it will contain more statistics of value than have ever before been put in the report of a Railway Commissioner. During the past year there have been about ninety miles of road built in Wisconsin, as will be seen from the following official table:

	Miles.
Spokane to Melville	12.00
New London to Clintonville	15.20
Canton to Granite Lake	29.00
Milwaukee to Centerville	1.20
Woodman to Lancaster (narrow gauge)	1.20
Hudson to River Falls	12.50
Total	92.10

There are now in Wisconsin 2,834 miles of road, an increase of only 127 since 1876. As to the miles of rail in operation, Wisconsin stands number eight in the Union.

Some of the Southern papers give joyful expression to their feelings when they reflect that the Republican party is almost completely wiped out in the South. The New Orleans Times, a bulwarking organ, speaks in high terms of the success of local self-government (violence and fraud) in making the South solidly Democratic, and then adds: "The North Carolina Legislature has about the largest Republican representation of any of these States—something over one-third; Florida comes next, with about one-third of its Legislature Republican; and then Louisiana, with thirty-one radicals out of 125 Representatives. In the other Southern States the Radical party can hardly be said to be represented at all. Georgia has but three Republican legislators—two negroes and one white man; Alabama, three; South Carolina, six."

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial who seems to be in Washington for the first time, sends to that journal some fresh and bright news of our modern statesmen in Congress. He took a good look at Senator Cox, and wrote: "Sam Cox is said to be the wit of the House, but then I have known a whole column of first class wit to sell for a glass of beer."

As the old year is fading away, and re-summation and the New Year will be ushered in before many hours, it is a pertinent question to ask, "What would have become of re-summation and the premium on gold had it not been for a Republican President and a Republican Senate?"

Re-summation is here, and the Democratic party is where?—New York Tribune

RESUMPTION.

What Secretary Sherman Said Yesterday—The Wall Street Combination—Purchase of Silver Bullion.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Secretary Sherman being asked to-day how he felt three days from resumption, replied that he felt excellently well. From advice which he had he was led to believe that there would be comparatively little demand for gold when the vaults of the Sub-Treasury were practically thrown open to the public in New York.

Referring to the statement recently published that a combination had been formed on Wall street to buy the price of gold in January, and thus attempt to defeat resumption, the Secretary said that he did not believe that any such combination had been formed; that if it had been he had not heard of it save through newspaper reports, and even though such was a fact, he did not see how it could successfully hamper the Treasury on its resumption plan. In fact, he did not fear such combinations.

Referring to the recent purchases of silver bullion by the Treasury, he said that the prices paid were kept secret, for publication would be unfair to those making bids. He said, however, that the prices of the last purchase were the lowest yet reached.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Reno's Court of Inquiry—Planning for the Reception of Grant.

WASHINGTON, D. C., 29.—The friends of Major Reno here are confident that he will secure a complete vindication from the Court of Inquiry, convened to meet in Chicago, January 13. A statement having been recently made here that Colonel Weir, who commanded a company under Reno, had charged the latter with cowardice at the Little Big Horn battle, Major Reno publicly declares the charge false, and that he will prove at the Court of Inquiry.

General Sherman is reported to have recently said, in speaking of the next session of the Army of the Tennessee, that the time and place of meeting were left with him, and that he now expected to call it to meet in Chicago next November, and to make the reunion coincident with the arrival of General Grant in that city, and give the latter a triumphant reception by his old comrades. He said he had just written to Gen. Grant not to hurry back to fast, but to arrange to reach Chicago in November, 1879. However General Grant expected to leave on his homeward route January 12, traveling via India. He may, after visiting California and Oregon, hunt in the west during the summer.

TROUBLE IN THE BAND.

The Manager of the Red Hussars Has Some Fun with the Boys.

FOND DU LAC, Dec. 29.—Musical circles in Milwaukee and elsewhere will be interested over the trouble into which the Red Hussars have got. Chief of Police Kretlow, of Fond du Lac, last night received a dispatch from Oshkosh, asking him to arrest two of the musicians Glass and Mublenberg, the former for stealing a bass viol valued at $50, the other for stealing a uniform of the value of $40. Chief Kretlow and Officer Lang and Commo captured them at the depot. They were taken to the police station, but not locked up. The Chief considered the charge no good so he let them go, and they went to a hotel. Amberg, the manager of the Hussars, came over the midnight train and returned to Oshkosh at 3:40 this morning. He came here again this afternoon, with a team, from Oshkosh, accompanied by a German policeman from Oshkosh, and left at 6:30, with Glass, the bass viol man, and Mublenberg, first violinist. Frederick Schultz, junior of the Milwaukee Northside Turnhall, representing here Oshkosh's Milwaukee orchestra, has been with the boys all the time, and has gone to Oshkosh over the snow with them to-night. The troupe is advertised for Turner Hall, Oshkosh, to-night. The boys claim they have had no pay for eight weeks. Amberg pays them as green-horns—15 per cent for him and 35 for them, and they try to pay all the expenses, including his. The prediction is that the whole outfit will go to pieces shortly.

THE LUMBERMEN.

Lack of Snow in the Pinerias—The Logging Camps.

WAUPACA, Wis., Dec. 29.—Strange to say there is still no sleighing in this vicinity, although thirty miles from here south there is six inches of snow. The air seems full of the needful, but the wind, coming as it does from the north and west, baffles all attempts to snow. Many lumbering camps have been commenced, and large quantities of beef, pork, flour and feed are seen daily moving toward the pinerias. Several crews of men have arrived from Fond du Lac and that part of the State, and are busy skidding and cutting logs. Tramways are being used, and quite a good deal of timber is being put on the streams. The wheeling is excellent, the roads being frozen hard and smooth as a floor. Large quantities of wood are being brought to market.

ELECTION CONTEST.

A Milwaukee Democratic Proposes to Contest a Seat in the Assembly.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 29.—W. J. Egan, Democratic candidate for the Assembly in the Eleventh District of this county, has served papers upon W. S. Johnson, Republican elect, with a view of contesting the latter's right to a seat in the Legislature. Egan, it is understood, will ignore the second election resulting from the tie vote in November, on the ground that no tie existed, two votes having been thrown out in the town of Greenfield that were cast for him, but bore no initials.

CONTERFEITING.

A Trio of Counterfeiters Arrested at Packwaukee, Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 29.—Deputy United States Marshal Simpson, with the assistance of the Sheriff of Marquette County, brought to this city early this morning John Rice, Samuel Billings, and Kendrick Billings, residents of Packwaukee, Wisconsin, who stand charged with uttering counterfeit money.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

DEADWOOD, D. T., Dec. 29.—News was received yesterday that Dr. Skinner, post surgeon at Fort Peck, was hit in the head and mortally wounded while witnessing the killing of cattle for the Indians.

KILLED BY A LUNATIC.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Officer Furness, shot by William L. Palmer, a lunatic, Saturday, died to-day from internal hemorrhage.

The difference between a political leader and a political camp-follower, is the subject of a long editorial in Saturday's Evening Wisconsin. Of course it hits the Senatorial question.

How Logs are Got Out in the Mountains.

From the Truckee, Nevada, Republican.
A chute is laid from the river bank up the steep mountain to the railroad, and while we are telling it, the monster logs are rushing, thundering, flying, leaping down the declivity. They come with the speed of a falling bomb, and somewhat of a roar. A track of ice and snow follows them—fire struck by their friction with the chute logs. They descend the 1,700 feet of the chute in fourteen seconds. In doing so they drop 700 feet perpendicularity. They strike the deep water of the pond with a report that can be heard a mile distant. Logs fired from a cannon could scarcely have greater velocity than they have at the foot of the chute. Their average velocity is over 100 feet in a second throughout the entire distance, and at the instant they leap from the mouth their speed must be fully 200 feet per second. A sugar pine log sometimes weighs ten tons. What missile! How the water is dashed into the air. Like a grand parade of diamonds and rainbows the watery spray is hurled to a height of a hundred feet. It forms the grandest fountain ever beheld. How the waters of the pond foam and seethe and lash against the shore! One log having spent its force by its mad plunge into the deep waters, has floated so as to be at right angles with the path of the descending monster. The mouth of the chute is perhaps fifteen feet above the surface of the water. A huge log hurled from the chute cleaves the air and alights on the floating log. You know how a bullet glances, but can you imagine a saw-log dancing? The end strikes with a heavy shock, but glides quickly past for a short distance; then a crash like the reverberation of artillery, the falling log springs 150 feet vertically into the air, and with a curve like a rocket falls into the pond seventy yards from the log it struck.

Two Brothers.

There was an affecting and dramatic scene at a wedding among colored people in Pittsburg last week, when two brothers whom slavery had divided were suddenly brought together after long separation. They had been born in Maryland, and the planter whose property they were becoming embarrassed in business, was obliged to part with some of his slaves, and the two boys were among those whom he sold. One of them was taken to Texas, the other to Virginia. They had grown to be men before the war came, and never expected to see each other again. After emancipation they both went North and engaged in business, but they never met. Each supposed the other to be dead. To this wedding went many colored people from the South and West, and among them the brothers. As they appeared to be strangers, some one introduced them. Before the day was over they discovered their relationship and each other had told the story of his life.

LAMAR'S FISH STORY.

An Unfortunate Application—The Story Carried to a Logical Conclusion.

From the Atlanta Methodist Advocate.
Senator Lamar, in the debate that followed Blaine's speech, of which we gave a synopsis last week, closed his remarks with these words:

I repeat the warning that these gentlemen, in throwing their net into this troubled sea, may bring out the yase—like the one which the fisherman in the Arabian Nights once brought forth—from which, when the seal is broken, a demon may arise who may be stronger than those who delivered him from his restraint, and turn around and destroy his deliverer.

Unfortunately for the application, the Senator has forgotten the story. The "demon" was a genius which proved to be a friend of the fisherman who released him from the yase. He taught the fisherman to catch wonderful fish, which he sold to the Sultan for a great price, but while the Sultan was cooking the fish, the wall of the room opened, and a black man, very large and gigantic, appeared, dressed as a slave, and having a green rod in his hand, and touching one of the fish with it, he cried out in a terrible voice, "Fish, fish, art thou doing thy duty?" At these words, the fish lifted up their heads and answered, "Yes, yes, we are; if you reckon we reckon on it, if you try your duty, we pay ours; if you try, we conquer, and are content." The fisherman, the genius, and the black man came out ahead, but the Sultan and his officers lost both their money and their fish. According to the story, it was not only safe, but immensely profitable to open the yase and release the genius. The story closes thus: "With regard to the fisherman who released the 'demon,' the Sultan overwhelmed him with rewards, and made him and his family comfortable for the rest of their days." May the country be as highly favored for opening the yase of slavery and liberating the black man and the Union element for the defense of free speech, a free ballot, and a united nation.

Hoffman and Tilden.

New York Correspondence Philadelphia Press (Rep.)

Among the thistleblows of rumor floating in the City Hall is one to the effect that ex-Governor Hoffman is to be the candidate of Mr. Tilden for Governor in the next State election. The residence of Mr. Hoffman is in the same part of town as that of Mr. Tilden, and the former is often seen at Gramercy Park. There is enough in the intimacy of the two men, and in the confidences which have lately been held, to indicate that Mr. Tilden has had this rumor put forth to try its effect on the public. Hoffman is to be the Democratic candidate also comes from Albany. It creates some sensation among the Democratic politicians, but none whatever among the Republicans. Republicans could wish nothing better than to have Hoffman run for Governor of this State again. They have an old score they would like to see balanced. Hoffman got his seat before by the most unblushing fraud, invented and engineered by Mr. Tilden and the Tweed Ring. He was never elected Governor of New York. What a spectacle that would be in politics to see John T. Hoffman supported for Governor of New York by the man who enjoys the sole distinction of being the only man in this Republic who has tried to buy the Presidency!

Business Prospects for 1879.

The Philadelphia North American says: "People who look forth at the commercial aspect are somewhat disheartened at the absence of business activity and enterprise. This discouragement deepens as each successive prospect of renewed spirit, to arise from some political event, proves to be delusive. In England the condition of business is better. Nevertheless we believe that the Republic is about to make a start on another era of expansion destined to be far-reaching and powerful, and this idea is so extensively entertained that many capitalists are eagerly waiting the opportunity of taking the tide at the proper stage. Through the whole of the revolution Philadelphia has displayed so much courage, faith and endurance that we have high confidence of the ability of our people to do their whole duty when the time comes. All the private improvements of the present season bear witness to the dauntless spirit of our capitalists and business men and encourage us to look forward with bright anticipations to the business year of 1879."

What Would Happen to "Old Hickory" if He Were Alive.

Barclay (Rep.)

The Ohio Democrats will meet in reunion at Columbus on the 8th of January. They have the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans, and the Democrats select that date in honor of Gen. Jackson, a solid hard-money Democrat, in order to devise measures to carry Ohio for soft money next year. The Indianapolis Journal thinks this "is an insult to the memory of Old Hickory which his ghost ought to rise and resent." The fact is, if the General were to come back to earth now, he would have to eschew politics or else join the Republicans. He would be kicked out of the back door of a National Democratic Convention.

MILTON JUNCTION.

The silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. John Stockman was great success in point of numbers and the personal of the guests. Their spacious mansion was filled as fully as comfort would admit, and a splendid time was the verdict of all. Among the guests present who came from outside the immediate neighborhood, we mention Mr. Robert Powell and wife, of Fulton, Ky. Mr. Loomis and wife, of Milton, and Rev. Mr. Sanders and wife, of Janesville. The presents were such as befitted the occasion, and were neatly presented by Rev. Mr. Sanders, who officiated in renewing the nuptial tie.

Justice Buten tied the knot matrimonial Thursday afternoon for a couple en route for Grant county, while waiting for the train bound westward.

G. E. Homes has removed from Chester, where he has been located as agent for some years past. He has again taken up his residence in this place.

Mrs. W. A. Collins left on Monday with her children to join her husband at North Loupe, Nebraska, where they propose to make their future home.

Mr. H. Black, of Algona, Iowa, shipped from this place last week, a very fine seven months' old entire colt, 3½ Clydesdale, raised by Wm. Druine, of Bradford, for which he paid the sum of $300 cash. Who says it doesn't pay to raise large-horses? He was sired by the far famed horse, Sir Wm. Wallace, owned by David McWay, and is one of the best colts that ever left the county. Mr. McWay reared up on this entire colt two years old to W. M. Moffet, of Illinois. We think that David McWay has done as much if not more than any man in the State toward improving our stock of heavy horses. Buyers are searching after these draft horses almost every week, and the supply is not equal to the demand. They come from Minnesota, Iowa and other States after them. The Clydesdale horses at present is one of the most popular breeds in America.

Something for the New Year.

The world renowned success of Hostetter's Bitters, and their sustained popularity for a quarter of a century as a stomachic, is scarcely more wonderful than the welcome that greets the annual appearance of Hostetter's Almanac. This valuable medical treatise is published by Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa., under their own immediate supervision, employing 50 hands in that department. Ten cylinder printing presses, 8 folding machines, 5 job presses, &c., are running about eleven months in the year on this work, and the issue of same for 1879 will not be less than ten millions printed in the English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish languages. Refer to a copy of it for valuable and interesting reading concerning health, and numerous testimonials as to the efficacy of Hostetter's Bitters, amusement, varied information, astronomical calculations and chronological items, &c., which can be depended on for correctness. The Almanac for 1879 can be obtained free of cost, from druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the country.

Do Stop That Cough!

Why in the world don't you go to the drug store and get a bottle of Hale's Cough Cordial and cure that cough, which is wearing you slowly, but so surely, out? We don't ask you to take any chances on this remedy. If you have not tried it we urge you to get a bottle and after using one-half of it you find that it is doing you no good, you can return it and get your money back. S. E. BRIEFLETS.

—Cool.
—The Mutual Improvers meet to-night.
—The old year has only one more day in which to pack up.
—The churches will hold no more Sunday services this year.
—Swearing will be indulged in New Year's day—swearing off.
—Pew renting with sociable, and music by the choir, at the Baptist church this evening. Go early if you want to hear the music.

—The Baptists have done the sensible thing of putting a store in the vestibule of their church, where called, attendants can warm before entering the audience room.

—All members of the Endowment Rank of the Knights of Pythias are requested to meet to-night at Castle Hall at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of electing officers.

—Charles Dahlberg complained before Justice Pritchard to-day of an assault made upon him by John Rothberger and John Rothberger, Jr. The case was adjourned until next Thursday morning.

—The young man who is charged with having forged A. D. Hendrickson's name to an order on E. T. Foote for clothes, has waived examination, and been held to the Circuit Court, bail being fixed at $500, in default of which he languishes in jail.

—The habeas corpus cases concerning the water power at Indian Ford are being argued before Judge Conger this afternoon, and the suits against the Deputy Sheriff, of Jefferson county, for refusing to give copies of the warrant served by him, are before Justice Pritchard.

—Dr. William Horne, of this city, has been invited to deliver an address before the joint convention of agriculturists and horticulturists to be held at Madison the first week in February. He has accepted the invitation, and will speak on the "Economy of Stock Raising."

—The Bower City Band are hard at work preparing for their sixth annual concert which they promise to make the best yet. The band always gives a first class entertainment, and the coming one which will take place about the middle of next month will exceed all previous ones.

—A special to the Chicago Times says that the court house at Black River Falls, which was built by Nowlan & Wilcox, and painted by Rogers & Hutchinson, of this city, was occupied by the county officers yesterday, and that it is one of the best court houses in northwestern Wisconsin.

—Old John Connors hasn't been comfortably cared for since he got out of the penitentiary last summer. Since then he has been sleeping in barns and sheds, and picking up free lunches as best he could. To-day Justice Pritchard sent him to the Poor House for three months, which will tide him through the cold weather.

—Lawrence Law had too much law, and desired to get free from Mrs. Law on the ground of desertion. The only trouble was that the court this morning decided that he had not enough law on his side, and that the desertion dated only from the time when his wife refused to live with him, and not when she really left him. This would make him entitled to a divorce on the 8th of January next, but not before, so he must stay a married man until then, at least.

—Saturday evening there was a children's festival at Trinity Episcopal church, as a Christmas celebration. The church was finely decorated, and a large Christmas tree dazzling with lights and crowded with gifts, made the eyes of the little folk sparkle with delight. The service was a special one arranged for the children by the rector, and it was heartily joined in by all. Rev. Mr. MacLean gave a short address concerning the origin of the observance of the day and the decorations which attend the festival. The gifts were then distributed, and all went home with joyful hearts and smiling faces. It was an occasion which will long be remembered by the little folk.

THE WEATHER.

The thermometer at 8 o'clock this morning stood at 1 degree below and at 2 o'clock this afternoon at 14 degrees above.

NEW YEAR'S CALLS.

The ladies should not forget to send in their names to the Gazette office before noon to-morrow, if they desire to have them published in the list of those who desire to receive calls on New Year's day. This publication proves a great convenience to the gentlemen who do the calling, and the ladies should accommodate them as far as possible.

THANKS.

If ever the Divine spark of sympathy in christianized human hearts manifests itself in deeds of kindness, it is when the reaper, Death, thrusts his sickle into our households and bears away the life of some one of our loved ones. In their recent bereavement in the death of their little one, Mr. and Mrs. Richmond had occasion to experience much of this christian and kindly sympathy and desire to express to all who, in many ways, aided them in the sad hour of affliction, their most earnest and heartfelt thanks.

SPECIE AND RELIGION.

Yesterday morning Rev. Mr. Chapell preached a very practical and carefully prepared sermon, in which he presented some thoughts suggested by the return to specie payments. He took as his text, "He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much; and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much. If therefore ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon, who will commit to your trust the true riches? And if ye have not been faithful in that which is another man's, who shall give you that which is your own?" The speaker described two kingdoms one of which was the spiritual in which the Holy Ghost was the controlling power, and the other, the physical world, in which money was the great ruler. He then showed that he who was not just in this physical world, in the handling of material wealth, could not be trusted with heavenly riches. The speaker showed the educational effect of honesty in this world, and showed how honest money and honesty of finances tended to make a like honesty in spiritual matters. He showed how during times of inflation the church energy had been enervated, and its purity corrupted, and that now there was a resumption of hard, honest money, there should also be a return to a solid, sure foundation for the building up of permanent christian prosperity.

OBITUARIES.

JOHN BERRIE.

This morning death suddenly took to itself another of Janesville's esteemed citizens, John Berrie. For several days Mr. Berrie had been suffering from what seemed to be a severe cold, and which threatened a congestion of the lungs, but he was not deemed in a dangerous condition, until a few minutes before his death. About five o'clock he spoke to his wife, telling her that he felt very badly indeed, and in a few minutes afterwards he breathed his last. The sad news of his death was speedily carried from one to another of his friends, causing a great shock to those with whom he had been so long associated, and who had always entertained for him so high a regard. Mr. Berrie was of Scotch birth and came to this country about 1854. After living two or three years in the East, he moved with the other members of his father's family to Clinton, in this county. Here he resided for several years, a portion of the time being engaged in farming. With the breaking out of the war he enlisted in the Thirtieth Wisconsin Infantry, and served as drum major, which position he filled to the satisfaction of all until the order came which did away with such officers for all the regiments. Since that time he has resided in Janesville, and has been employed in various manufacturing interests, and in other pursuits. For a year or more he served as Deputy Clerk of the Circuit Court, leaving his desk last spring for a trip to his old home in Scotland, where he spent the summer months, returning home early in the fall. Having always a taste for music, he became cultured in this art, and was very popular as an orchestral leader and musician, and his services were always in demand among the social circles. He was a very affable, genial man, delighting in a hearty laugh, and a jovial story, and made friends wherever he went. There was in his character, however, more than a mere surface of pleasantness. There were the strong traits of honest and honorable manhood, to which friendship could fasten with a lifelong hold. The record which he leaves behind him is one of which no man need feel ashamed, and the sorrow caused by his death is as genuine as it is general. He leaves no family except a wife. About her in this hour of her great sorrow will rally many warm and true friends, who will show her all the sympathy and kindness which is in their power. Mr. Berrie's parents have gone before him, but he has several sisters still living, one of whom, Mrs. McArthur, lives in Johnston, and the others in Chicago. To them the sad news will fall as a sudden and stunning blow.

The funeral services will take place next Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from his late residence on Center near Linn street. The services will be under the management of the Masonic Lodge, of which he was and active and prominent member.

MRS. JANE HUGUNIN.

An aged pilgrim has entered her rest, Mrs. Jane Hugunin, who died at her home in Johnston yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, having reached the ripe old age of 84 years and 5 months. She was the mother of Mr. J. V. Hugunin, of this city. She was greatly respected by all who knew her, and she has left behind her many sweet memories.

MRS. FLINT.

Mrs. Kendall Flint died at the residence of her nephew, Mr. L. N. Williamson, on Sunday evening, the 29th, at the age of sixty-eight. The deceased came to Janesville from Canada, about six months ago for the purpose of making her home with Mr. Williamson. About three months since she became ill from dropsy, and despite all that medical treatment could do, the symptoms of the disease grew worse, and it finally resulted in her death. The funeral services will be held on Tuesday afternoon at half-past one o'clock at the residence of Mr. Williamson, corner of South First and Jackson streets, third ward. The Rev. Mr. Sawin will officiate. The friends of the family are invited to attend the services.

DEATH OF MR. F. E. FILLMORE EDITOR OF THE BELLOIT GRAPHIC.

The editor and proprietor of the Beloit Graphic, Mr. Frederick E. Fillmore died at his house in that city Saturday evening the 29th inst., of inflammation of the bowels. Mr. Fillmore had been a resident of that city less than three years, but during that time by an upright and manly course and by an untiring industry in his chosen profession, as a journalist, had won for himself a large circle of friends, who to-day mourn that his young life and the promise it gave of so much usefulness in the world has been so suddenly cut short. One week ago he was summoned to Janesville, to testify on the Mack trial, and taking a severe cold he was, on the following Monday prostrated with the disease, which so quickly terminated his life.

Mr. Fillmore was married to Miss Eva Tuttle, a most estimable lady of Beloit, only three months ago, and the happiness which seemed to fill each life by this union was of marked significance; and the grief which now fills to overflowing the cup of the trusting young wife, widowed before the dawn of widowhood was hardly realized, is too deep and sacred, in fitting word, to be told. The tender sympathy of many hearts goes out to her to-day, as well as to the mother, the father, the brothers and sisters, whose family circle has now for the first time been entered by the stern messenger—death. Mr. Fillmore's remains will be taken to Marengo, Illinois, his former home, to-day for interment. What will be the future of the Graphic we cannot predict. Mr. Fillmore had labored hard to make his paper a success, and had more than met the expectations of his friends. The Graphic has been a live, spicy local paper, and if dropped out of sight now it will be a matter of regret to many.

DE QUINCY AND NARCOTICS.

The members of the Round Table had an interesting session last Saturday evening, the subject of study being "De Quincy." Miss Annie Halro gave a short sketch of the author. Rev. Mr. Fayville gave a well written and carefully prepared paper on De Quincy's metaphysical writings. Stanley B. Smith read a paper on "Narcotics in Literature," which called forth a lively discussion. He spoke of the use of a "harshness" and its influence on the believers in Mohammedanism, and ascribed many of the fanciful features of that religion to the dreamy ecstatic state of mind caused by the use of this drug. The use of opium and of tobacco was also dwelt upon. A long list of authors and prominent intellectual men were enumerated as having used narcotics with no apparent harm, the list commencing with Shakespeare and Ben Johnson and running down to Tennyson and Longfellow. Medical evidence was quoted to show that since the introduction of tobacco the longevity of human life had been increased. In answer to the charge that the users of the weed become filthy in their personal habits the essayist pointed to the fact that Dr. Sam Johnson was filthy without using any narcotic. He described him as "a walking caravanserai of adipose matter and dirt, the incarnation of all that was slovenly and gluttonous," and yet he never used tobacco. In fact the essayist seemed to favor the opinion that no baneful influence had resulted from the use of narcotics, and that the use of tobacco had some advantages. He said: "It mingles the annoyances of daily life, and exhilarates in times of depression and calms in seasons of excitement, it quadruples the normal ecstasies of celibacy, and mollifies the asperities of cohabitation." Even this climax in favor of tobacco was not sufficient to secure a full endorsement of his views, and in the discussion which followed, Rev. J. L. Jones, Rev. Mr. Fayville, and Rev. Mr. Chapell took the other side of the question. Prof. Haire thought the paper was slightly incorrect, and Prof. Van Cleave took a midway ground on the question. The discussion was a most interesting one, and greatly amused those who sat quietly as listeners. The evening closed with a talk by Prof. Van Cleave on "Impassioned Prose."

REVIEWING THE YEAR.

At the Congregational church yesterday morning Rev. Mr. Sawin gave some thoughts on the going out of the old year and the coming in of the new, choosing as his text: "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." The speaker in presenting some thoughts which occurred to him as he looked back over the past, spoke of the necessity of the parents watching zealously the rapid growth of their children, especially in educational matters. Time flew so speedily, and household and business cares so engrossed the parents, that the time between a child entering school and graduation seemed hardly a handbreath. Parents should therefore watch closely the development day by day. The influence of the press should be guarded in the home circle lest evil should creep in, and even the influence of the pulpit was not always pure, especially when it makes itself a free theatre on Sunday for the delineation of vice and crime.

The speaker spoke against crowding a sermon with sensational pyrotechnics, and detailing the crimes which have been committed, and while it was possible that the flaming pictures of the night side of New York as painted by Talmadge in his pulpit, might have done some good, yet there was little proof of it.

The speaker in speaking of the changes wrought during the past years spoke of the departed ones as follows:

"Shall I call the roll of those who were numbered with us a year ago, but are now numbered in that city which abideth and continueth forever? Dr. Amer, Father Goodell, and his wife, William M. Tallman, and his wife, Mrs. Eliza Silmon, Mrs. Anna H. Dockstad, Mrs. Lucy A. Herkimer. These names were on our church roll, but this was the last year of their earthly communion. They sleep the sleep of the just. They are waiting beyond the river for those who yet remain, and if one now could come from them I know it would be an exhortation to faithfulness and earnestness. Our Sunday School and our congregation miss yet other faces. By the side of some of them have I stood and heard them witness a good confession and seen the evidence of a faith that reached to the heavens. I will name them—Mrs. John Strunk, Susie London, Mrs. Mrs. A. L. Stearns, Mrs. Lucy Penniman, that aged noble mother, Mrs. Elizabeth I. Blount—Mrs. Flagler, Sarah, and seven weeks later Jennie Edwards, and Ida Wild—and last of all little Winnie McQuiloch. Besides these there were others, twenty-nine in all, some beautiful little babies, dying without knowing what death was, passing hence as if borne on angel wings to their cradle, others in the full prime of life, and others yet who had passed beyond the three score and ten years. The road up yonder is getting very familiar to me, and I know well how Oak Hill looks in summer dress and winter shroud. I call these things to your mind that you may realize how surely time makes its changes."

The speaker closed with thoughts of hope and cheer. He believed that the future was the time for infinite progress and enjoyment, and that no loyal subject of the King, should shrink when the summons came to depart.

In the evening Mr. Sawin gave a general review of the past year, as it concerned not merely the church but the whole world. He spoke of the public men who had died—Victor Emmanuel, King of Italy, Count de Salerni and Alcoradi, noted Italian statesmen, Pope Pius the Ninth and Berardi, an Italian Cardinal, Lord John Russell, twice England's prime minister, Gideon Wells, Benjamin Wade, Ohio's greatest Senator, and Bayard Taylor, our poet and statesman, Queen Mercedes, of Spain, and Louis Garrier Pages, the great French historian and statesman, Sir Edward Creasy, one of England's most noted historians, Angelo Secchi, an Italian astronomer of world-wide fame, Prof. Henry, of the Smithsonian Institute, who was not less a devoted christian than a devoted scientist, William Cullen Bryant, our oldest poet, George B. Appleton, the head of the great publishing house in New York, August Petermann, the great German geographer, and George Henry Lewis, one of the keenest minds of England. There were some less known to the world whose loss was felt not less sharply, such as Samuel Bowles, of the Springfield Republican, and Seth Palford, former Governor of Rhode Island, Reynault, the French chemist, and Adams, the inventor of the Adams press.

He remarked that the past year had witnessed wonderful activity in thought on questions relating to government among the people; also a wonderful activity in mental and moral fields; a rapid growth in social reforms.

WATCH MEETING.

The annual watch meeting will be held at the First M. E. church on New Year's eve, commencing at 8 o'clock with a prayer and song service. Rev. W. P. Stowe, P. E., will preach at 9 o'clock, after which the meeting will be of a social nature until 11:30 o'clock, when the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered. All who take pleasure in this religious service are cordially invited to attend, both ministers and people. We are expecting a very interesting and profitable meeting. Come and share the blessing.
